

John Henley

CEO

John Henley was appointed as the Chief Executive Officer of Equinox in September 2018. Mr. Henley came to Equinox with decades of leadership experience and expertise leading similar organizations.

His extensive experience meeting the needs of children and families for nearly three decades, along with his business acumen, have been essential in moving Equinox forward. His sage leadership and innovative thinking are instrumental in guiding Equinox—in addressing the multifaceted needs of diverse clients, and being responsive to the ever-changing needs of the community, while navigating complex funding streams and multiple regulatory entities.

Mr. Henley was most recently the CEO of Northern Rivers Family of Services, retiring in 2016. Prior to that, he was Executive Director of both Elmcrest Children's Center in Syracuse and Cayuga Home for Children in Auburn.

Mr. Henley received his B.A. from LeMoyne College and his M.S. from Syracuse University, Syracuse, NY.

Mr. Henley is on the Board of Directors of the Council of Families & Child Caring Agencies and also the Niskayuna Coop.

Mr. Henley resides in Niskayuna, New York with his son Alex. He has two other adult children, Paul and Tonia, who reside in the area.
